TROOPS GUARD CONVICTED SLAYER

JURY FINDS LYONS GUILTY OF MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

Killer Calm While Attorney Prepares For New Trial

NORWALK, O., April 23.—A death watch trained a battery of machine guns on the county jail today where James Lyons, the two-gun farm boy, convicted of killing detective Frank E. McGrath awaited court action that may save off death in the electric chair.

Unless the court intervenes and grants the young desperado a new trial he will die in the electric chair at the state penitentiary at the end of three months.

Young Lyons' doom was pronounced by a jury of nine men and three women at 8 o'clock last night after seven hours and fifteen minutes deliberation.

Mercy was not recommended, thus automatically imposing the death penalty.

None was calmer in the face of death today than the convicted killer, whose spectacular career of crime will find its denouement in the "hot chair."

Judge Irving Carpenter, who will pronounce sentence, has withheld his death decree pending hearing on the youth's motion for a new trial. The motion probably will be heard early next week.

Meanwhile a cordon of national guardsmen was drawn about the jail, machine guns were manned from vantage points and other precautions were taken to prevent the condemned man's escape.

The verdict was a sensational victory for the state which had fought tenaciously and with grim determination to exact the supreme penalty.

Lyons' face retained its cool calm and the only sign of perturbation was given when he leaned across the counsel table to converse in whispers with his attorney, Melvin O. Retting. Even then his countenance remained impassive.

The verdict affected the crowded court room differently. All eyes centered on the humped over form of Lyons, one of the most dramatic figures in the criminal annals of Norwalk, but the young desperado gave no sign of fear or cowardice.

He was equally calm when returned to his cell, about which a rifle-armed military guard was placed.

Once in his cell, Lyons persuaded Deputy Sheriff Clarence Gregory to play cribbage with him through the bars.

Citizens gathered in little knots about the jail today, but were careful to keep out of range of the machine gun muzzles trained on the jail from courthouse windows and other vantage points.

Lyons' father and mother received the verdict with tears and pallid faces.

Lyons is granted ninety days in which to fight the jury's verdict. If the motion for a new trial is denied, there was believed little doubt that he would appeal.

If Judge Carpenter overrules the motion, Lyons will be transferred to the state penitentiary, where he will be placed in the death cell.

The turtle, a traditional trophy between Ohio State University and the University of Illinois football teams, has passed into his eternal sleep, according to information received today from Urbana, Ill., where the Illini hold forth.

Last season the Illinois fraternity which cared for Illiabuck proposed he be awarded to the loser instead of the winner of the Ohio State-Illinois conflict. The plan fell through however and Illiabuck took him back to Urbana after winning the 1925 game from State.

Schech is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and practiced law in Indiana and Illinois before coming to Chicago.

WALES SAVES LIFE OF FELLOW HUNTER

PARIS, April 23.—The Prince of Wales saved the life of Baron Palaminy, a fellow huntsman, with the Pau hounds, according to a message received from Biarritz.

Palaminy had been unseated and was being dragged along the ground by the foot as his runaway horse followed the chase when Wales caught the animal.

The Prince was on a holiday in Biarritz, convalescing from an aural operation to relieve an abscess.

Yesterday he motored to the Pau country to participate in the hunt.

MODERN JOAN OF ARC LEADS MEN IN FIGHT WITH OUTLAWS

CALCUTTA, April 23.—A village girl, famed among the natives for her beauty, was decorated today by the Bengal government for spectacular heroism reminiscent of Joan of Arc in France.

Instead of arraying herself in armor, however, as did the Maid of Orleans, the Indian Joan stripped herself bare of clothing and led her fellow villagers, in a charge which routed a force of Dacoits as a certain class of gangsters are called in India.

Dressed in uniforms of native policemen whom they murdered, the Dacoits entered the girl's village. The natives were terrified and fled.

With them Joan ran. Their flight took them to the river bank, where were kept the village fishing spears.

Joan stopped by the spears and called her friends around her. She exhorted them to resist the murderers. In the midst of her exhortation she tore her clothes from her body, set them afire and gathered a bundle of spears in her arms distributed them among the men.

With the nude girl to lead them, the men charged the Dacoits. The gangsters were armed with rifles, but could not prevail against the leadership of the unclothed girl. There was a sharp engagement, and the Dacoits fell back. Subsequently five of them were arrested.

CLAN DENIES IT WILL HELP DAVIS

COLUMBUS, O., April 23.—Rumors the Ku Klux Klan will support former Governor Harry L. Davis, for the United States senatorial nomination because of his opposition to the World court plan were denied today by Clyde W. Osborne, grand dragon of the Ohio Realm.

"The Klan will not back Davis," Osborne said emphatically. "While we are anti-world court and are not very friendly toward Senator Willis (whom Davis would oppose for the nomination) because of his stand on this issue, we are not planning to back Davis for the nomination."

"We are neutral," Osborne concluded, adding that the Klan has expressed no choice between Davis and Willis.

LONG LOST VESSEL MAKES APPEARANCE

SAN PEDRO, Calif., April 23.—The four masted barkentine Irene, missing more than four months, with a crew of 14 men, was sighted off the breakwater here today.

The ship left Gray's Harbor, Washington, with a sister ship, the Alvena, 13 weeks ago. The ships were loaded with lumber and were headed for Miami, Fla. It was to be a race between them for Miami. The Alvena and Irene were both reported missing shortly after leaving Gray Harbor, but the former finally reported at Balboa, C. Z., five weeks ago, then went on to Miami.

There had been no trace of the Irene until she was sighted here this morning.

BERENGER OFFERS NEW PROPOSAL FOR SETTLING FRENCH DEBT

WASHINGTON, April 23.—A new proposal settling the $4,377,000,000 French war debt was submitted today to the American debt funding commission by French Ambassador Henri Berenger. Its details were not immediately available.

Subsequently it developed that the Berenger offer contemplated a sixty-two year payment with initial payments the first five years amounting to $25,000,000 annually and increasing thereafter to an eventual figure of $100,000,000 or more, annually.

What Price Stardom?

Chosen from a dramatic academy to take the star role of a Broadway play, Miss Justine Johnstone had a remarkable career in her grasp—and then she was suddenly discharged just as the play opened, and the name of another went up in bright lights. Suing to restrain any other actress from playing her role, she declared a new "angel," backing the show with his money, had demanded the star part for another actress.

BOOTLEGGERS BE SIEGE CHICAGO FROM SUBURBS MAYOR TESTIFIES

Dever Charges Police of Outlying Towns With Failure To Co-operate—Olsen Retraction Too Late, he Says

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Bootleggers and beer makers besieged Chicago, from suburban rendezvous, Mayor William Dever of the nation's second largest city told the senate prohibition committee today.

"There are no public vice resorts in the city itself," the Mayor said. "But the men we have chased out of town congregate in hordes in Cicero and other outlying settlements."

"In Evanston and Oak Park, where the law is being enforced, we have no trouble but in other urban sections we do not obtain co-operation of police."

The mayor said that District Attorney Olsen, against whom he made an attack yesterday for Olsen's earlier committee observations, made his retraction, "too late."

"He says that I am the first mayor of Chicago who has tried to enforce the law but his statement before this committee had wider circulation and his new statement will not have nearly the same circulation," Dever said. "This statement shows the greatest by-product of the Volstead act—wild assertions that are later retracted."

Dever criticized some judges, who he said, had interfered with our work, because they do not believe in the prohibition law and refuse to think the people believe in it.

Dever complained that prohibition was too much of an all-absorbing topic.

"It is almost impossible to give good government when we are immersed in this question," he said. "What we need is patience—courageous, intelligent study of the whole problem," he said.

CLUBS DENIES IT WILL HELP DAVIS

COLUMBUS, O., April 23.—Rumors the Ku Klux Klan will support former Governor Harry L. Davis, for the United States senatorial nomination because of his opposition to the World court plan were denied today by Clyde W. Osborne, grand dragon of the Ohio Realm.

CLAIMS AUTHORITY TO REVOKE CHARTER OF CLEVELAND CLUB

Omits Ruling On Betting Machines—Crabbe Pleased

COLUMBUS, April 23.—The state supreme court today ruled that it has the authority to revoke the charter of a corporation operating race tracks when gambling is permitted in violation of the law, or to require the corporation to discontinue its unlawful operations.

The decision was handed down in the outer suit brought by Attorney General Crabbe against the Thistle-down Jockey Club of Cleveland. The ruling in effect, denied the club's contentions that the petition for revocation of its charter was not proper legal procedure.

The court refrained from ruling on the gambling question, involving the operation of a pari-mutuel betting machine.

Simultaneously the court ruled that Crabbe's outer suit against the Capital City Racing Association, of Columbus, which formerly operated Beulah Park at Grove City, be dismissed on the ground that the corporation has been dissolved. The court omitted a ruling as to whether the Jockey Club's charter would be revoked. The ruling, instead, was interpreted as opening the way to bringing the case into court on its merits so that the gambling issue and the question of charter revocation can be decided.

The club was granted twenty days in which to file answer to Crabbe's charge that it permitted and encouraged gambling at the Cleveland track, in violation of the law.

After the answer is filed—and it presumably will deny the attorney general's charge, the court will set the case for hearing.

In passing on a demurrer in the Thistle-down case, the court unanimously held the attorney general's outer suit was a valid cause of action and one in which the court has jurisdiction. The ruling was written by Chief Justice Carington T. Marshall and was concurred in by Associate Justices Allen, Jones, Matthias, Day, Kinkade, and Robinson.

"Whether the judgment should be one of complete ouster or only ouster from continuance of offensive acts or the exercise of unauthorized powers, must remain for future determination," the court held.

Touching on the Thistle-down Club's contention that if the attorney general has power to bring ouster suits, that every corporation in Ohio is menaced, the decision said:

"The attorney general is the only official who has the right to invoke this and it will be presumed that that official will always be one of character who would not use his office for the purpose of oppression."

The decision further pointed out that if the attorney general could not bring such action, it would then "be admitted that corporations are subject to no official supervision, and without penalty or restraint."

Crabbe said he was "greatly pleased" with the decision "because it clears the way for a ruling on the legality of pari-mutuel machines."

Crabbe said the decision did not affect gambling at Beulah Park, Grove City, nor the status of the case of the Exhibitors and Trainers Association, Cincinnati, which operates Coney Island track. An outer suit also is pending against the Cincinnati organization.

HAYNES DEFENDS PROHIBITION LAW

DETROIT, April 23.—Public opinion, passed the eighteenth amendment and is maintaining the law, and the bitter attacks on prohibition only go to show that prohibition is effective, Roy Haynes, federal prohibition commissioner, said today in an address to the Anti-Saloon League here.

The prohibition commissioner declared the lines of enforcement are tightening.

"Those who believe in a sober America would but voice their opinion as forcefully and as steadily as do those who are striving to break down the barrier of the eighteenth amendment, the true opinion of the nation would be more accurately represented," Haynes said.

The former czar of the dry forces scoffed at the idea prohibition had brought about an increase of crime among youths of the nation.

NEW CANDIDATE

COLUMBUS, O., April 23.—Grant Beam, of Napoleon, Henry County, today filed his declaration of candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Beam is a former member of the Henry County board of commissioners and is prominent in Republican circles.

TOO FAT? TOO THIN?

XXVI. "The Pendulum"

I suppose that you are experiencing a lot of fun with these exercises, particularly with the illustrations. They illustrate my idea of a healthy figure—there is nothing to go wrong on it.

It might be well for you to look at your own figure in the mirror. By doing this you can better tell what exercises you need to stress to reduce your weight or to build up undeveloped portions of your body. You know what a normal

ard it, then draw in your abdomen. How does it look? That is the way you should stand, with your spine straight, your shoulders squared, and your hips properly placed. The practice of holding the abdomen in will aid in fat reduction and body building. You would do well to practice it with your other exercises for about thirty seconds at a time.

Today's exercise is known as the "Pendulum."

Position: Lying on back, hands resting under legs, legs raised, heels together.

Your arms, as they rest under the legs, should be straight. Now raise legs and hold them up without raising the back. Then lean both legs to the left as far as you can without falling over, then to the right. Continue swinging like a pendulum for sixteen counts or more.

Tomorrow you will learn "Leg Circumduction."

ATTORNEYS PLAN TO RESIST EFFORTS TO ABANDON CAR LINE

Proceedings designed to compel city officials to show why the Dayton, Springfield and Xenia Southern Railway Co., should not be allowed to abandon its Xenia local traction service on Main and Detroit Sts., will be resisted by the city through Attorney Harry D. Smith and City Solicitor J. A. Finney at a hearing in United States District Court in Cincinnati Saturday.

Hearing is the result of an application filed by Receiver Robert K. Landis for the First Wisconsin Trust Co. against the D. S. and X. S. Co., claiming that because of the steady annual loss, holdings of the company as bondholders, are jeopardized.

In refusing to surrender contract privileges to the traction company, City Commission and local municipal authorities believe they have the united backing of Xenians.

Receiver Landis sets forth the losses on operation of this division in 1923 were $5,594.86; in 1924, $6,891.69 and in 1925, $7,927.90.

City Solicitor J. A. Finney has been authorized by the commission in 1923 were $5,594.86; in application. H. D. Smith has been named as his assistant.

Commission takes the stand, the company, in attempting to obtain a new franchise for interurban service to Dayton, is violating the old twenty-five year franchise which expired two years ago, under which the concern agreed to furnish local service.

AN AMAZING DEVELOPMENT

IN Boston 222 years ago was born the first American newspaper, on April 20, 1704, to be exact. Its name, "The Boston News Letter," was peculiarly appropriate, for it was little more than latter, either in size or volume of news matter printed.

From that tiny and unpromising seed have sprung the thousands of daily and weekly newspapers published in the United States and Canada today. It is the Adam of the great metropolitan dailies, the efficient dailies of the smaller cities and the weekly, tri-weekly and bi-weekly papers of the many thousands of towns which densely dot the map of these forty-eight states.

The smallest newspaper published in this country today would have appeared as imposing to the readers of the first issues of The Boston News Letter as the large metropolitan dailies seem to the subscribers of the most meager of the present day weeklies.

If the editor of that first American newspaper were to return today to the scene of his journalistic labors he would be amazed to find daily newspapers containing veritable libraries of information, collecting news from every quarter of the globe as if by magic and printing it the same day of its occurrence by methods which to him would appear miraculous.

Yet in essentials, American journalism has remained the same, actuated by a desire to report facts accurately, interpret them honestly and serve the public interest faithfully.

"PLAY BALL!"

BREATHES there a fan with soul so dead that his heart does not leap to the magic thrill of that raucous cry? Throughout the land it echoes this week, to the farthest reaches of America's proud dominions. The big league season opened and industry limps along as best it may without the aid of captains, corporals and buck privates in the rear rank.

Not for many a day will these devotees of the diamond be the same again. Work in the office to them will become something that must be endured; the real business of their lives is yelling from grand-stand or bleacher—exhorting the home team to greater efforts, applauding a home-run or a spectacular piece of fielding, and crabbing the decisions of the umpire.

In no other country than America could a single sport take so firm a hold on the minds of so many people. Baseball is peculiarly an American game, and the spirit with which its fans enter into it is peculiarly an American spirit.

With many of them it amounts almost to a disease, from the throes of which they will not be liberated until the "world series" has passed into history in the fall.

It is a health sign that a nation can enter so wholeheartedly into the enthusiasms of athletic contents. All work and no play—

THE GRAPEFRUIT'S SQUIRT

ELIMINATION of the squirt from grapefruit is to be listed high among gains in disarmament. The scientific philanthropist to be credited with this achievement has accomplished much in the way of establishing the peace of mind of breakfasters on a permanent basis.

For years the militant grapefruit, armed with its squirt, put up a game fight against its assailants. Its unerring aim in spotting collar or tie or shirt, the unexpectedness of its assault, combined to make it a foe worthy of a hero's spoon. But since it has been pacified by taking away its squirt, it is now to be catalogued as a nonbelligerent.

Overwrought Nerves

YOU never heard of a red-blooded person—man or woman—becoming a nervous wreck! And you never will. You never saw anybody with healthy, rich, red blood, get wearied by the activities of daily life. Did you?

No! It's weak blood—lack of healthy, rich, red blood. That's the whole trouble with those whose nerves are overwrought. They lack the resisting powers—the stamina that healthy, red-blood-cells give that enable us to stand up under the strain of daily life.

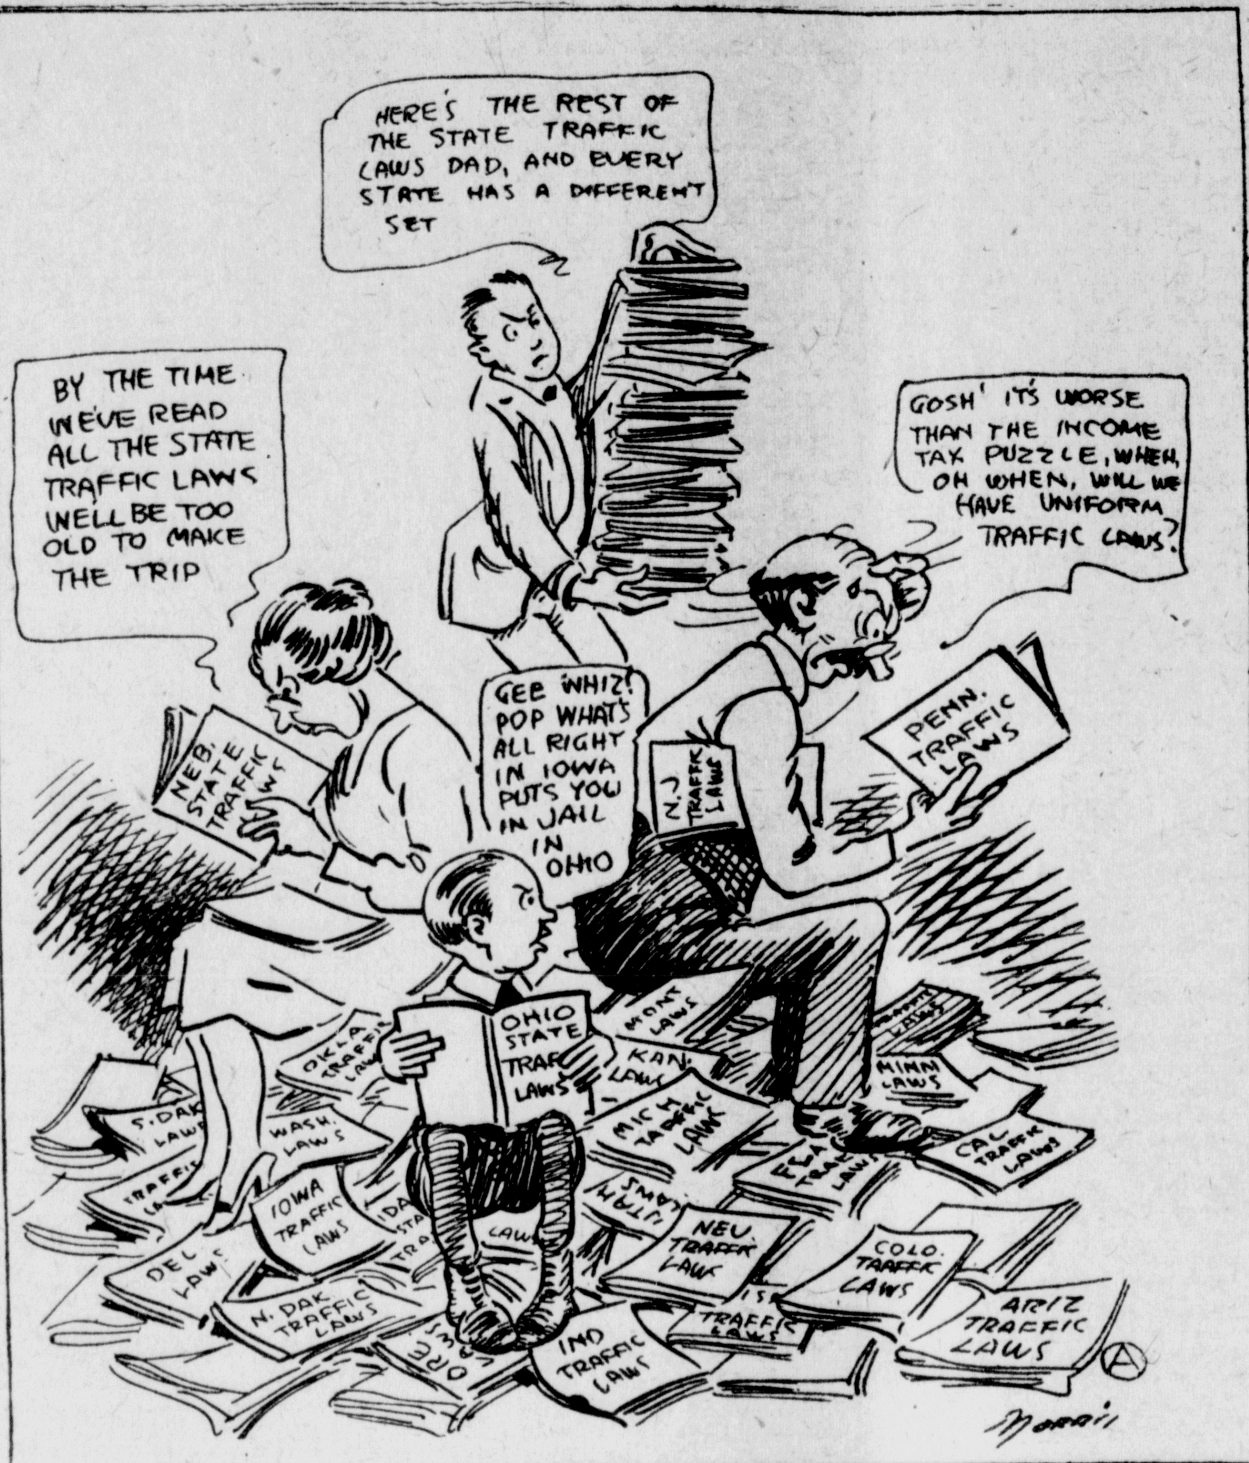

S. S. S. is the salvation of these unhappy people. It is just the thing needed to strengthen the nerves, restore muscular power to the body, and increase the endurance of weak, failing, run-down women and men.

Don't keep on going down simply because your blood is starving for want of healthy, red-blood-cells. You can get back your nerve power with S. S. S. You can do it just as surely as thousands have done for the past century.

S. S. S. also clears the skin of pimples, boils, eczema—blisters, checks fill out and firm flesh takes the place of flabby muscles. Why, you'll begin living all over again. Get S. S. S. today from any good druggist. And get the larger bottle. It's more economical.

End Bunion Pain Forever

No Need to Suffer Another Day Those Agonizing Torturing Pains.

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal and that is to apply Moore's Emerald Oil night and morning and people who suffer from such enlargements would be wise to reduce them before they reach a more or less chronic stage.

Ask Sayre's Drug Store or any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces last a long time and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed, they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

MARSHAL RECOVERS FROM HIS INJURIES

Marshal Guy Johnson, of Fairfield, shot with his own gun and beaten up with his own blackjack by two Fairfield men who assaulted him when he attempted to place Willis Eches, 22, under arrest for intoxication Wednesday night, is reported to be recovering rapidly at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton.

He is suffering more from the beating he received than from the revolver shot, one of five fired, which grazed his cheek, inflicting a flesh wound. His condition is not serious.

Emory Boggs, 19, Fairfield, said to have admitted firing the shot, was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to six months in the County Jail by C. O. Longnecker, justice of the peace. Eches received a similar fine and sentence. Both were brought to the County Jail Thursday to begin sentence.

The Theatre

Up in Urbana, Ohio, a "Little Theater" movement has gained wide appeal and popular attention. Organized a few years ago, it has enlisted several hundred members, produced a number of amateur theatricals and offered an out-let for Thespian talent that is rarely found in small cities.

Otto H. Kahn, the financier who is god-father for the Metropolitan, in his treatise on the American stage which he is pleased to subtitle, "Reflections of an Amateur," says the enlistment of local pride, to discover and give opportunity to local talent and to bring into existence sentiments, aspirations and interests which are latent among the people throughout the country, is a problem before the theatrical world now.

He proposes a combination of small communities to have their own theatrical seasons as a means of educating and giving practice work to embryo artists in order to supply the American stage with talent.

"Young America," he says, "especially the female portion of young America, is bringing forth each year a surprising number of artistically gifted—some of them brilliantly gifted—ambitious and serious-minded aspirants for a career on the dramatic stage or in music."

He continues: "To return to the orderly sequence of my thought, I wish to stress the point that far too much of young America's artistic talent goes to waste for lack of guidance and opportunity. In Germany, in Italy and of late to a lesser extent—in France, there is a theater in almost every one of the larger cities (not to speak of the state-maintained conservatories in the respective capitals.) Young artists get their practical training, their routine and stage experience in smaller theaters. It does not take long for those of superior qualifications to be discovered and to find engagements at theaters in the principal cities. Similarly with young playwrights. "With us, where, in the ordinary course of things, can a young artist seeking a state career find comparable openings for practical guidance and learning and development? Where are the signposts pointing the road to the goal to which she or he are aspiring with all the eagerness and intensity of their youthful souls? Where can young playwrights get their work produced effectively, except in the overcrowded mart of New York?"

Mr. Kahn decries the passing of the stock companies, and that there is little opportunity in New York for the beginner who has had no experience. He believes ways should be put in effect to make the little theaters which have sprung up things of greater and more real concern to their respective towns and cities. "They should successfully challenge the 'movies' for public patronage," he believes. He urges further that they be not high-brow, "prachy," anaemic, exclusive, superior, but must be bold, red-blooded, broad-gauged and appealing.

The constitutional amendment proposed by the automobile owners protective league will exempt the automobile from taxation, declared Witt.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

VI—I AM GIVEN A CAR

VIRGINIA came in the next morning with my breakfast tray and a huge box of orchids, in the midst of which I found Nick Wayne's card. "Who is he?" she demanded. "Oh, a chap I met once at a party when I was at school," I answered. You simply have to lie to Virginia—her manner tempts you to even when her words don't.

"Is he the Nicholas Wayne who married Linda Jamison?" she asked, and went on to describe him. My heart sank as I saw that her description fitted. I always feel so desolate when I hear that a nice new man has a wife.

Her parents didn't approve of the match, and took her abroad, and she divorced him just recently. Virginia went on. Better news, that! "I read about it in 'Town Talk' just the other day. Well, don't go with him much—he hasn't a cent. Though he goes with the best people in town—don't discourage him too much. When do you see Frank Harrison again?"

"Today, for tea," I answered. I wished she would not be so insistent about him.

I went for my morning walk a little later; no matter what the weather, that was part of my routine. Virginia approved of it because it was good for my looks; I loved it because I liked exercise and also because it took me away from her. I simply had to have a chance to think once in a while.

I came back to find a note from Jim, posted somewhere along the way. Before I read it I took out the lovely enamel locket he had given me when we were engaged, and looked at his picture. It was a snapshot taken when he was at West Point; such a nice, laughing picture, with eyes that smiled straight at you. How I had loved him when he gave me that locket, and I found his picture inside it!

I opened his letter with a warm glow in my heart for him. I even wondered if I couldn't manage somehow to rush off to the islands and join him before long. What fun it would be to surprise him! Five minutes later I was laughing at myself. I had read his letter then.

"Dear Nancy," it began, "Too bad you couldn't have come along on this trip; we're having a corking time. Celia had made her compartment look like a stunning living-room, somehow, and we've all made it headquarters—she doesn't mind having half a dozen men around her."

I'm glad she and Bill are in the regiment. We have decided to share a house as that will save me a lot of bother, and she says that she might as well keep house for two men as for one. And of course she lived in the Islands when her father was stationed there, so she knows all about being comfortable in spite of the heat."

I could just see Celia proposing that little plan, and big, nice Bill urging it, and Jim consenting. Another woman making plans for making my Jim comfortable!

At first I was furious. I jumped up and started for the living-room where Virginia was reading, intending to tell her that I'd just got to join Jim at once.

And then I stopped. Jim wouldn't want me. He'd been quite willing to leave me behind. Bitterly I recalled that moment when I had seen him with his arms around Celia. What a fool I was!

I put on my prettiest frock, and when Frank Harrison came, gave him such a charmingly friendly greeting that Virginia smiled on me in approval, and he promptly offered me his car to use whenever I liked. "You might just as well have it," he urged. "The streets are impossible in this weather, of course, and I don't like to think of your jaking around in the rain."

taxis, they're so unsafe. She's such a lovely little thing," he added, to my mother, "that we'll have to take good care of her."

"Yes indeed," assented Virginia. I knew that she could just see herself using that stunning big car, and its uniformed chauffeur. A car had been one thing that our budget just couldn't manage to include, and even renting one by the month was out of the question.

"Oh, you're too kind," I told him, hating myself for my smile, yet remembering that was one of the things I had to bargain with. "May I really have it to use just as if it were my own?"

"Surest thing you know! I'll have Watkins take me down to the office in the morning, and sometimes perhaps you'll run down with him and bring me home at night. Think you could manage that?"

"Oh, certainly she could," Virginia answered before I could speak. I didn't like that part of the picture quite so well. The telephone rang just then, and the maid said it was for me. I flew to answer it.

"Hello, Nancy!" It was Nick Wayne's voice. "Come on for a nice tramp through the Park. I'm at the corner drug store."

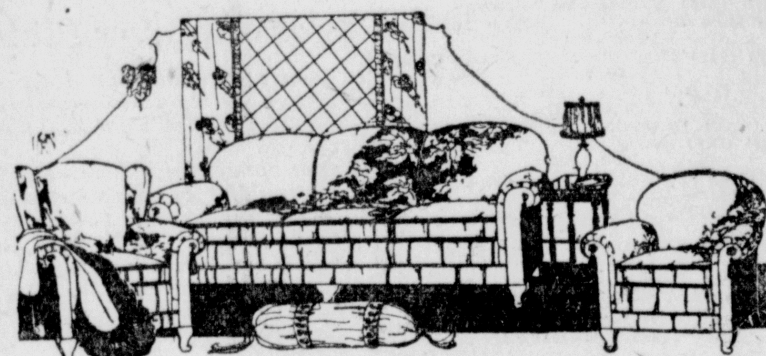

"Oh, I can't—I'm so sorry—" My regret was sincere. I was longing to get out of the atmosphere that Frank Harrison and Virginia together managed to create. I felt as if I were in the market place. "Make it an hour later and I'll come."

"Fine—we'll have dinner together somewhere where it only costs a dollar," he laughed.

COURT RULES AGAINST RACE TRACK

TROOPS GUARD CONVICTED SLAYER

JURY FINDS LYONS GUILTY OF MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

Killer Calm While Attorney Prepares For New Trial

NORWALK, O., April 23.—A death watch trained a battery of machine guns on the county jail today where James Lyons, the two-gun farm boy, convicted of killing detective Frank E. McGrath, awaited court action that may stave off death in the electric chair.

Unless the court intervenes and grants the young desperado a new trial he will die in the electric chair at the state penitentiary at the end of three months.

Young Lyons' doom was pronounced by a jury of nine men and three women at 8 o'clock last night after seven hours and fifteen minutes deliberation.

Mercy was not recommended, thus automatically imposing the death penalty.

None was calmer in the face of death today than the convicted killer, whose spectacular career of crime will find its denouement in the "hot chair."

Judge Irving Carpenter, who will pronounce sentence, has withheld his death decree pending hearing on the youth's motion for a new trial. The motion probably will be heard early next week.

Meanwhile a cordon of national guardsmen was drawn about the jail, machine guns were manned from vantage points and other precautions were taken to prevent the condemned man's escape.

The verdict was a sensational victory for the state which had fought tenaciously and with grim determination to exact the supreme penalty.

Lyons' face retained its cool calm and the only sign of perturbation was given when he leaned across the counsel table to converse in whispers with his attorney, Melvin O. Retting. Even then his countenance remained immobile.

The verdict affected the crowded court room differently. All eyes centered on the humped over form of Lyons, one of the most dramatic figures in the criminal annals of Norwalk, but the young desperado gave no sign of fear or cowardice.

He was equally calm when returned to his cell, about which a rifle-armed military guard was placed.

Once in his cell, Lyons persuaded Deputy Sheriff Clarence Gregory to play cribbage with him through the bars.

Citizens gathered in little knots about the jail today, but were careful to keep out of range of the machine gun muzzles trained on the jail from courthouse windows and other vantage points.

Lyons' father and mother received the verdict with tears and pallid faces.

Lyons is granted ninety days in which to fight the jury's verdict. If the motion for a new trial is denied, there was believed little doubt that he would appeal.

If Judge Carpenter overrules the motion, Lyons will be transferred to the state penitentiary, where he will be placed in the death cell.

FARMER ADMITS BIGAMY CHARGE

NEW LEXINGTON, O., April 23.—John W. Kunkler, 52, prominent Lancaster farmer, pleaded guilty to charges of bigamy when arraigned before Justice J. W. Newberry here today.

Kunkler was returned recently from Jacksonville, Fla., where he was taken into custody while on his "second honeymoon." He was returned to New Lexington by Sheriff Harley McNabb.

Twenty persons had been taken to hospitals following injuries in the resumed hostilities at noon.

Communal riots occurred in several Indian cities a fortnight ago, resulting in the deaths of more than thirty persons.

ROOSEVELT URGES VOLSTEAD REPEAL

NEW YORK, April 23.—Modification or repeal of the Volstead act is necessary to check the murder, corruption and other crimes that have followed in its wake, Theodore Roosevelt said at the annual dinner of advertising officials of the American Newspaper Publishers here.

Roosevelt, who received the backing of the Anti-Saloon League when he made his unsuccessful race for the governorship of New York in 1924, urged strict enforcement of the prohibition law as long as it should remain on the statute books.

The Prince was on a holiday in Biarritz, convalescing from an aural operation to relieve an abscess.

Yesterday he motored to the Pau country to participate in the hunt.

FIRE LOSS HEAVY

LONDON, April 23.—Premier Stanley Baldwin today took personal charge in the struggle to avert a mine strike on May 1 and the industrial disorganization which would inevitably follow.

Baldwin presided over a joint meeting of miners and mine owners representatives at the ministry of labor. After nearly two hours of discussion, the owners representatives led by Herbert Smith, left the conference room and five minutes later they were followed by the miners. Baldwin will meet with a sub-committee of the owners executive committee later today.

CHICAGO BURGLAR HELPED BY RADIO

CHICAGO, April 23.—The first radio burglar in Chicago's "criminal history" was arraigned today when William Schech, a disbarred lawyer was taken into court.

After his arrest Schech admitted to police he had robbed about 125 homes, using the radio as his means of locating his victims.

He said that during early evening he would listen to radio announcers as they gave names and addresses.

Later in the night Schech would visit the homes mentioned by radio and rob the victims.

Schech is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and practiced law in Indiana and Illinois before coming to Chicago.

WALES SAVES LIFE OF FELLOW HUNTER

PARIS, April 23.—The Prince of Wales saved the life of Baron Palamny, a fellow huntsman, with the Pau hounds, according to a message received from Biarritz.

The Prince was on a holiday in Biarritz, convalescing from an aural operation to relieve an abscess.

Yesterday he motored to the Pau country to participate in the hunt.

RUMOR OF DEATH WAS EXAGGERATED

TO SEEK PIRATE'S GOLD IN FLORIDA

TROPHY IS DEAD

COLUMBUS, O., April 23.—"Illibuck" is dead.

The turtle, a traditional trophy between Ohio State University and the University of Illinois football teams, has passed into its eternal sleep, according to information received today from Urbana, Ill., where the Illinois hold forth.

Last season the Illinois fraternity which cared for Illibuck proposed he be awarded to the loser instead of the winner of the Ohio State-Illinois conflict. The plan fell through however and Illinois took him back to Urbana after winning the 1925 game from State.

DECORATE VILLAGE GIRL FOR HEROISM AGAINST BANDITS

Modern Joan of Arc Leads Men In Fight With Outlaws

CALCUTTA, April 23.—A village girl, famed among the natives for her beauty, was decorated today by the Bengal government for spectacular heroism reminiscent on a miniature scale of the deeds of Joan of Arc in France.

Instead of arraying herself in armor, however, as did the Maid of Orleans, the Indian Joan stripped herself bare of clothing and led her fellow villagers, in a charge which routed a force of Dacoits as a certain class of gangsters are called in India.

Dressed in uniforms of native policemen whom they murdered, the Dacoits entered the girl's village. The natives were terrified and fled.

With them Joan ran. Their flight took them to the river bank, where were kept the village fishing spears.

Joan stopped by the spears and called her friends around her. She exhorted them to resist the murderers. In the midst of her exhortation she tore her clothes from her body, set them afire and gathered a bundle of spears in her arms distributed them among the men.

With the nude girl to lead them, the men charged the Dacoits. The gangsters were armed with rifles, but could not prevail against the leadership of the unclothed girl. There was a sharp engagement, and the Dacoits fell back. Subsequently five of them were arrested.

KLAN DENIES IT WILL HELP DAVIS

COLUMBUS, O., April 23.—Rumors the Ku Klux Klan will support former Governor Harry L. Davis, for the United States senatorial nomination because of his opposition to the World Court plan were denied today by Clyde W. Osborne, grand dragon of the Ohio Realm.

"The Klan will not back Davis," Osborne said emphatically. "While we are anti-world court and are not very friendly toward Senator Willis (whom Davis would oppose for the nomination) because of his stand on this issue, we are not planning to back Davis for the nomination."

"We are neutral," Osborne concluded, adding that the Klan has expressed no choice between Davis and Willis.

Gary to Quit

Elbert H. Gary, veteran head of the United States Steel Corporation, hinted that his retirement may be expected any time, following a squabble at the annual stockholders' meeting at which one shareholder asked that "the young fellows get a chance" at running the world's largest business enterprise.

What Price Stardom?

Chosen from a dramatic academy to take the star role of a Broadway play, Miss Justine Johnstone had a remarkable career in her grasp—and then she was suddenly discharged just as the play opened, and the name of another went up in bright lights. Suing to restrain any other actress from playing her role, she declared a new "angel," backing the show with his money, had demanded the star part for another actress.

BOOTLEGGERS BE SIEGE CHICAGO FROM SUBURBS MAYOR TESTIFIES

Dever Charges Police of Outlying Towns With Failure To Co-operate—Olsen Retraction
Too Late, he Says

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Bootleggers and beer makers besieged Chicago, from suburban rendezvous. Mayor William Dever of the nation's second largest city told the senate prohibition committee today.

"There are no public vice resorts in the city itself," the Mayor said. "But the men we have chased out of town congregate in hordes in Cicero and other outlying settlements."

"In Evanston and Oak Park, where the law is being enforced, we have no trouble but in other urban sections we do not obtain co-operation of police."

The mayor said that District Attorney Olsen, against whom he made an attack yesterday for Olsen's earlier committee observations, made his retraction, "too late."

"He says that I am the first mayor of Chicago who has tried to enforce the law but his statement before this committee had wider circulation and his new statement will not have nearly the same circulation," Dever said. "This statement shows the greatest by-product of the Volstead act—wild assertions that are later retracted."

Dever criticized some judges, who he said, "had interfered with our work," because they do not believe in the prohibition law and refuse to think the people believe in it.

Dever complained that prohibition was too much of an all-absorbing topic.

"It is almost impossible to give good government when we are immersed in this question," he said. "What we need is patience—courageous, intelligent study of the whole problem," he said.

MOTORISTS PAID $800,000 IN TAX

COLUMBUS, O., April 23.—Ohio motorists paid $861,040 in gasoline taxes during the month of March, the state tax commission announced today.

This figure was in keeping with other monthly reports which averaged approximately $1,000,000 a month.

The gasoline tax law has now been in effect a little more than one year.

BERENGER OFFERS NEW PROPOSAL FOR SETTLING FRENCH DEBT

WASHINGTON, April 23.—A new proposal settling the $4,377,000,000 French war debt was submitted today to the American debt funding commission by French Ambassador Henri Berenger. Its details were not immediately available.

Subsequently it developed that the Berenger offer contemplated a sixty-two year payment with initial payments the first five years amounting to $25,000,000 annually and increasing thereafter to an eventual figure of $100,000,000 or more, annually.

The French government is willing to drop the so-called "security clause"—a guarantee for lower French payments should France's capacity be diminished by lower reparations receipts or other causes. However, it develops that the French want some sort of assurance—probably in the form of a "gentleman's agreement" that they will not be pressed if subsequent circumstances limit their capacity to pay.

Diplomats say that a tacit understanding has already been made to cover this point.

CLAIMS AUTHORITY TO REVOKE CHARTER OF CLEVELAND CLUB

Omits Ruling On Betting
Machines—Crabbe
Pleased

COLUMBUS, April 23.—The state supreme court today ruled that it has the authority to revoke the charter of a corporation operating race tracks when gambling is permitted in violation of the law, or to require the corporation to discontinue its unlawful operations.

The decision was handed down in the ouster suit brought by Attorney General Crabbe against the Thistledown Jockey Club of Cleveland. The ruling in effect, denied the club's contention that the petition for revocation of its charter was not proper legal procedure.

The court refrained from ruling on the gambling question, involving the operation of a pari-mutuel betting machine.

Simultaneously the court ruled that Crabbe's ouster suit against the Capital City Racing Association, of Columbus, which formerly operated Benlah Park at Grove City, be dismissed on the ground that the corporation has been dissolved. The court omitted a ruling as to whether the Jockey Club's charter would be revoked. The ruling, instead, was interpreted as opening the way to bringing the case into court on its merits so that the gambling issue and the question of charter revocation can be decided.

The club was granted twenty days in which to file answer to Crabbe's charge that it permitted and encouraged gambling at the Cleveland track, in violation of the law.

After the answer is filed—and it presumably will deny the Attorney General's charge, the court will set the case for hearing.

In passing on a demurrer in the Thistledown case, the court unanimously held the attorney general's ouster suit was a valid cause of action and one in which the court has jurisdiction. The ruling was written by Chief Justice Carington T. Marshall and was concurred in by Associate Justices Allen, Jones, Matthias, Day, Kinkade, and Robinson.

"Whether the judgment should be one of complete ouster or only ouster from continuance of offensive acts or the exercise of unauthorized powers, must remain for future determination," the court held.

Touching on the Thistledown Club's contention that if the attorney general has power to bring ouster suits, that every corporation in Ohio is menaced, the decision said:

"The attorney general is the only official who has the right to invoke this and it will be presumed that that official will always be one of character who would not use his office for the purpose of oppression."

The decision further pointed out that if the attorney general could not bring such action, it would then be admitted that corporations are subject to no official supervision, and without penalty or restraint."

Crabbe said he was "greatly pleased" with the decision "because it clears the way for a ruling on the legality of pari-mutuel machines."

Crabbe said the decision did not affect gambling at Benlah Park, Grove City, nor the status of the case of the Exhibitors and Trainers Association, Cincinnati which operates Coney Island track. An ouster suit also is pending against the Cincinnati organization.

HAYNES DEFENDS PROHIBITION LAW

DETROIT, April 23.—Public opinion passed the eighteenth amendment and is maintaining the law, and the bitter attacks on prohibition only go to show that prohibition is effective, Roy Haynes, federal prohibition commissioner, said today in an address to the Anti-Saloon League here.

The prohibition commissioner declared the lines of enforcement are tightening.

"If those who believe in a sober America would but voice their opinion as forcefully and as steadily as do those who are striving to keep it sober."

Haynes said the dry forces scored the idea prohibition had brought about an increase of crime among youths of the nation.

TOO FAT? TOO THIN?

XXVI. "The Pendulum"

I suppose that you are experiencing a lot of fun with these exercises, particularly with the illustrations. They illustrate my idea of a healthy figure—there is nothing to go wrong on it.

It might be well for you to look at your own figure in the mirror. By doing this you can better tell what exercises you need to stress to reduce your weight or to build up undeveloped portions of your body. You know what a normal figure looks like. As you look in to the mirror, turn your side toward it, then draw in your abdomen.

How does it look? That is the way you should stand, with your spine straight, your shoulders squared, and your hips properly placed. The practice of holding the abdomen in will aid in fat reduction and body building. You would do well to practice it with your other exercises for about thirty seconds at a time.

Today's exercise is known as the "Pendulum."

Position: Lying on back, hands resting under legs, legs raised, heels together.

Exercise: Bend legs over to left and right, swinging like a pendulum. Your arms, as they rest under the legs, should be straight. Now raise legs and hold them up without raising the back. Then lean both legs to the left as far as you can without falling over, then to the right. Continue swinging like a pendulum for sixteen counts or more.

Tomorrow you will learn "Leg Circumduction."

ATTORNEYS PLAN TO RESIST EFFORTS TO ABANDON CAR LINE

Proceedings designed to compel city officials to show why the Dayton, Springfield and Xenia Southern Railway Co., should not be allowed to abandon its Xenia local traction service on Main and Detroit Sts., will be resisted by the city through Attorney Harry D. Smith and City Solicitor J. A. Finney at a hearing in United States District Court in Cincinnati Saturday.

Hearing is the result of an application filed by Receiver Robert K. Landis for the First Wisconsin Trust Co. against the D. S. and X. S. Co., claiming that because of the steady annual loss, holdings of the company as bondholders, are jeopardized.

In refusing to surrender contract privileges to the traction company, City Commission and local municipal authorities believe they have the united backing of Xenians.

Receiver Landis sets forth the losses on operation of this division in 1923 were $5,594.86; in 1924, $6,891.69 and in 1925, $7,927.90.

where it overturned, Thursday afternoon. Name of the driver of the touring car, being driven toward Bellbrook, was not learned. It is believed he escaped uninjured. Both machines were badly damaged.

According to information received at the Greene County Auto Club, both motorists proceeded across the narrow bridge, each secure in the belief the other would stop and allow him to cross first safely. A collision could not be averted.

Special Deputy Sheriff Dilver Belden and Constable Ed. Wilkins investigated the accident.

PROTEST CHANGE TO NEW TIME SCHEDULE AT MEETING HERE

A temporary restraining order to prevent daylight savings time becoming effective here Sunday was threatened at a meeting of people opposed to the new time in the assembly room of the Court House, Thursday night.

J. C. Hutchison, farmer, Fairground Road, heads a committee, appointed at the meeting, which conferred with Marcus Shoup, attorney, Friday morning for the purpose of taking legal action to prevent the change taking effect.

Other members of the committee are Horace Anderson and Walter Nash, farmers; Walter Flomerfelt and Ohmer Tate, Xenia, railroad employees and J. J. Downing, Xenia photographer, the Court.

A meeting of all Greene County citizens opposed to the time change will be held in the Court House assembly room Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. It was also decided at the meeting, Attorney Shoup admitted Friday he had been retained by the protesting faction but said he had planned no form of action to interfere with the ordinance.

Seventy-five people, mostly farmers, attended the Court House meeting Thursday night.

After the people had been assembled some time without action, James Hawkins, farmer, Fairground Road was elected chairman and the program to halt the new time was discussed which terminated in the appointment of the committee.

City administration was silent on the action Friday. They said the ordinance has been on the city statute books some time and is scheduled to become effective again this year at 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

Sayre's Drug Store

Drugs ONLY! W-H-E-W

The other night I had a nightmare! Woke up in a cold sweat just as I was entering the poor house! Gosh, what a dream!

It seemed that a set of these reformers (this is the dream) had had a law passed that PROHIBITED a druggist from selling anything but drugs in his store! And all night long in my dreams I was trying to make a living in this store of mine SELLING DRUGS ONLY. Do you wonder why it was a nightmare? I've been whistling ever since I WOKE UP—I'm so glad it isn't so!

Just run your mind over the scores of things you get here in this store that aren't labeled drugs! Why I'd only have a couple dozen people a day trickle in here if drugs was all they could get—Am I right?

As it is NOW, every member of a family is MY customer, day and night! And wouldn't I be in tuff luck during Xmas, New Years, Mother's Day, Easter and Fourth of July!

Think of this store without TOILETRIES! Without CANDY CIGARS and RUBBER GOODS! Without STATIONERY, ELECTRIC CURLERS, STAMPS and TELEPHONE SLUGS! Wotta Life! Wotta Life!

Do you wonder I nearly got in that Poor House? DOC SAYRE.

Like Wine! Wine improves in color, in bouquet WITH AGE. The pictures you take with your KODAK TODAY may not be so TURBID important to YOU but think how interesting and cherished it will be to your great grandchildren! Or aren't you INTERESTED in such things! (We have many KODAKS for sale) $2.75 to $50.00.

Candy Crab Mystery Solved! We have actually been WORRIED on account of the FRENZIED way folks were buying these Candy Crabs! They acted like they heard there WASN'T GOING TO BE NO MORE! We wired the factory and found we could have all we wanted so THAT theory was busted. Then we asked the next 10 customers why they INSISTED on Candy Crabs (39c) every day. In a chorus came the answer: BECAUSE IT'S THE BEST "CANDY BUY" YOU GOT IN THE STORE!

Dogs Don't Care! The thing you GENERALLY get from a dog is a flea! THIS time however, we're swiping his MANGE MEDICINE (SARGENT'S) and after removing the mean odor are getting HEAVY results from it for DAN-DRUFF remedy. It's a dinger too—costs 75c.

We Just Couldn't Turn Them Down! This set of Shari put up by Langlois was so dog GONE attractive we just HAD to put them in! Comes in cleansing vanishing and massage. We sure have a wonderful department—these Toiletries!

Where Birth Control Is Justified! or MURDER! It's when these MOTHERS get to organizing free-love colonies in the woolly necks of your extra good clothes! We are perfectly willing to supply you with LARVEX and ENOX, which breaks up these affairs PERMANENTLY!

ANYONE Can Get Them! It's no sign of uncleanness to find your home over run with funny bugs. One NEVER knows when or WHERE they'll break out. Peterman's Discovery puts the boogie on 'em—QUICK! 25c a pt. Can be obtained HERE ONLY!

How to Stretch a Dollar Outta Shape! Gather up all the old no account, mussy looking straw hats you can find, dash in here with 25c and get some S. W. Hat Brite; rush home, use it 'cording to instructions and if you HAD ten OLD hats, you'll soon have the NEW ones for 25c.

Snubbing a Moth! If you're rich and don't give a hoot about saving your clothes, naturally you won't be interested in these Gem Moth Proof Side Opening Cedar Clothes Bags. But there's hundreds of folks here in Xenia, who judging from the way we've been selling these bags, want to KEEP their GOOD clothes another season. They're VERY embarrassing to moths and VERY discouraging! 3 for 50c.

Many People NEVER Use Them At All! You can take a good, honest bath that is highly satisfactory and you're just as clean and pure as—well, VERY DECIDEDLY pure—but if you'd dropped some Vantines Bath Salts in the tub, you'd be not only PURE but extremely PROUD—of yourself! Try some sometime! They don't cost much.

THE GUMPS—THE TIRED BUSINESS MAN

I HAVE TO GO DOWNTOWN TODAY—I THOUGHT MAYBE YOU COULD MEET ME AND WE'D HAVE LUNCHEON TOGETHER—

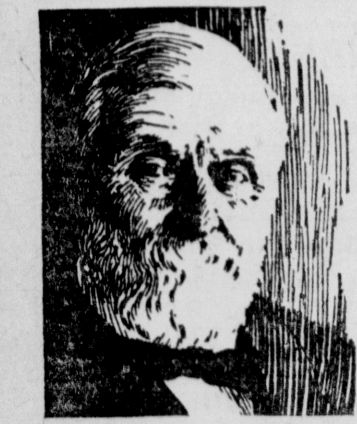

I'M SORRY BUT I'LL BE SO BUSY TODAY—I'LL BE LUCKY IF I HAVE A CHANCE TO GRAB A SANDWICH—I MUST MEET BILL DICKEY AT ONE O'CLOCK—THAT WILL JUST GIVE ME TIME TO GET OVER TO THE BANK TO SEE ABOUT SOME BONDS THEY WANT ME TO BUY—THEY HAVE TO RUSH BACK TO THE OFFICE WHERE I HAVE A MILLION APPOINTMENTS—I WON'T HAVE A SECOND TO SPARE ALL DAY—

GOSH, IT'S A NICE DAY—I THINK I'LL CALL UP BILL DICKEY AND TELL HIM I'LL SEE HIM TOMORROW—MY BANKER PHONED ME TO TELL ME TO GRAB THOSE BONDS—HE THINKS THE MARKET IS GOING UP—THAT'S HIS OPINION—MAYBE IT'S GOING DOWN AND I CAN SAVE A COUPLE OF HUNDRED DOLLARS BY WAITING UNTIL TOMORROW—IT'S NO USE WASTING A NICE DAY LIKE THIS, WAITING AROUND TO KEEP APPOINTMENTS WITH A LOT OF PEOPLE WHO MAY NOT EVEN SHOW UP—

IF A MAN LOSES HIS HEALTH HE'S A PAUPER NO MATTER WHAT HIS BANK BOOK SAYS—THERE ARE OTHER THINGS IN LIFE BESIDE WORK AND BUSINESS—EVERYTIME I HEAR A FELLOW BRAGGING THAT HE WORKS LIKE A HORSE I FEEL LIKE SENDING HIM A BALE OF HAY—EVERYBODY KNOCKS THE DUST OFF BUTTERFLY BUT EVERYTIME I SEE A BEE LITTLE BEE FLYING AROUND I NOTICE HE'S TRYING TO STING SOMEBODY—

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to establish natural, regular movement even for those

AN AMAZING DEVELOPMENT

IN Boston 222 years ago was born the first American newspaper, on April 20, 1704, to be exact. Its name, "The Boston News Letter," was peculiarly appropriate, for it was little more than latter, either in size or volume of news matter printed.

From that tiny and unpromising seed have sprung the thousands of daily and weekly newspapers published in the United States and Canada today. It is the Adam of the great metropolitan dailies, the efficient dailies of the smaller cities and the weekly, tri-weekly and bi-weekly papers of the many thousands of towns which densely dot the map of these forty-eight states.

The smallest newspaper published in this country today would have appeared as imposing to the readers of the first issues of The Boston News Letter as the large metropolitan dailies seem to the subscribers of the most meager of the present day weeklies.

If the editor of that first American newspaper were to return today to the scene of his journalistic labors he would be amazed to find daily newspapers containing veritable libraries of information, collecting news from every quarter of the globe as if by magic and printing it the same day of its occurrence by methods which to him would appear miraculous.

Yet in essentials, American journalism has remained the same, actuated by a desire to report facts accurately, interpret them honestly and serve the public interest faithfully.

"PLAY BALL!"

BREATHES there a fan with soul so dead that his heart does not leap to the magic thrill of that raucous cry? Throughout the land it echoes this week, to the farthest reaches of America's proud dominions. The big league season opened and industry limps along as best it may without the aid of captains, corporals and buck privates in the rear rank.

Not for many a day will these devotees of the diamond be the same again. Work in the office to them will become something that must be endured; the real business of their lives is yelling from grand-stand or bleacher—exhorting the home team to greater efforts, applauding a home-run or a spectacular piece of fielding, and crabbing the decisions of the umpire.

In no other country than America could a single sport take so firm a hold on the minds of so many people. Baseball is peculiarly an American game, and the spirit with which its fans enter into it is peculiarly an American spirit. With many of them it amounts almost to a disease, from the throes of which they will not be liberated until the "world series" has passed into history in the fall.

It is a health sign that a nation can enter so wholeheartedly into the enthusiasms of athletic contents. All work and no play—

THE GRAPEFRUIT'S SQUIRT

ELIMINATION of the squirt from grapefruit is to be listed high among gains in disarmament. The scientific philanthropist to be credited with this achievement has accomplished much in the way of establishing the peace of mind of breakfasters on a permanent basis.

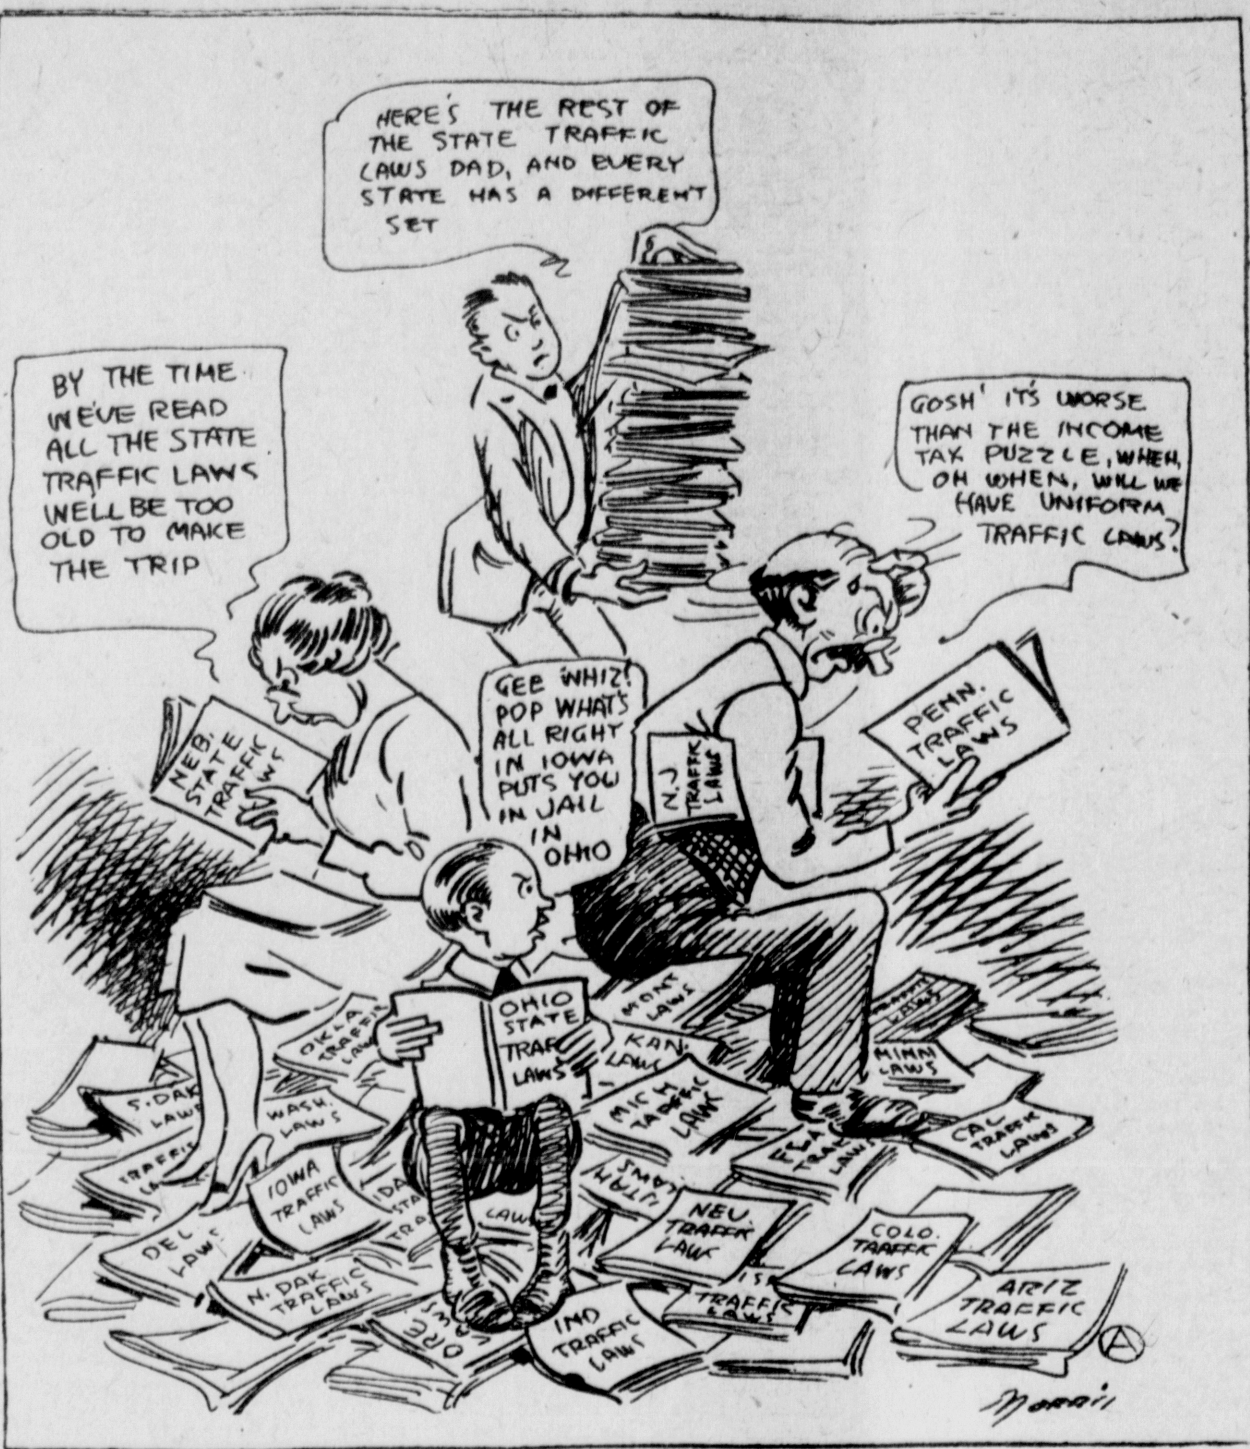

For years the militant grapefruit, armed with its squirt, put up a game fight against its assailants. Its unerring aim in spotting collar or tie or shirt, the unexpectedness of its assault, combined to make it a foeman worthy of a hero's spoon. But since it has been pacified by taking away its squirt, it is now to be catalogued as a nonbelligerent.

Here is a good method: Never leave a rubber plant in the hot sun in summer, yet keep it in a room which has plenty of light. Water it every other day, but do not let it become soaked—merely moist all the time. Every two or three weeks use one teaspoon of ammonia to one quart of water in place of the usual wetting; this prevents worms. To clean the leaves, wash them with a soft cloth moistened with warm milk, which not only removes the dirt but also acts as a food to the plant. Never let the plant till the leaves stop coming." ## TO A LITTLE GIRL

Little girl, just half-past three. Take this little rhyme from me. All the joy that gold can bring, All the songs the birds can sing, All this world can hold to give, Grow-up men live while they live, Hath not half the charm of you, And the lovely things you do.

Little girl, just half-past three. When God sent you down to me, Oft I wonder, did He know Fortune's power would dwindle so? Did He know that I should find Such a curious change of mind, And should some day come to see Just how trivial pomp can be?

Little girl, just half-past three. Lost are dreams that used to be, Now the things I thought worth while, Could not buy your lovely smile, And I would not give you up For the golden plate and cup, And the crown the king may boast.

In my life you're uppermost.

Little girl, just half-past three. This is what you mean to me, More than all that money buys, More than any selfish prize, More than fortune, more than fame, And I learned this when you came, Other fathers know it too, Nothing matters more than you.

Overwrought Nerves

YOU never heard of a red-blooded person—man or woman—becoming a nervous wreck! And you never will. You never saw anybody with healthy, rich, red blood, get wearied by the activities of daily life. Did you?

No! It's weak blood—lack of healthy, rich, red blood. That's the whole trouble with those whose nerves are overwrought. They lack the resisting powers—the stamina that healthy, red-blood-cells give that enable us to stand up under the strain of daily life.

S. S. S. is the salvation of these unhappy people. It is just the thing needed to strengthen the nerves, restore muscular power to the body, and increase the endurance of weak, failing, run-down women and men.

Don't keep on going down simply because your blood is starving for want of healthy, red-blood-cells. You can get back your nerve power with S. S. S. You can do it just as surely as thousands have done for the past century.

S. S. S. also clears the skin of pimples, boils, eczema—hollow cheeks fill out and firm flesh takes the place of flabby muscles. Why, you'll begin living all over again. Get S. S. S. today from any good druggist. And get the larger bottle. It's more economical.

RAILROAD IS AGAIN MADE DEFENDANT IN ACTION FOR DAMAGES

Alleging defendant's negligence was the direct cause of her husband's death August 31, 1925, Mrs. Martha Ellis, as administratrix of the estate of Ernest Ellis, deceased, has brought suit for $2,900 damages against The Pennsylvania Railroad Co., in Common Pleas Court through Attorney C. L. Darlington.

Her husband was fatally injured while in the employ of The Kaufman Cartage Co., at Detroit, Mich., August 29, 1925, petition recites.

His death occurred while in the process of unloading radiators from a freight car owned by the railroad when without warning a railroad crane was manipulated in such a way as to strike him knocking him off a truck on which he was standing, his widow claims.

Decedent is survived besides his widow by four children, Earl, Esther, Robert and Mary Jane, aged 9, 7, 5, and 3 respectively, who have been damaged by their father's death to the extent of $2,900 the plaintiff contends.

CONFESS JUDGMENT

End Bunion Pain Forever

No Need to Suffer Another Day Those Agonizing Torturing Pains.

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning and people who suffer from such enlargements would be wise to reduce them before they reach a more or less chronic stage.

Ask Sayre's Drug Store or any first class druggist for an original twoounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces last a long time and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

MARSHAL RECOVERS FROM HIS INJURIES

Marshal Guy Johnson, of Fairfield, shot with his own gun and beaten up with his own blackjack by two Fairfield men who assaulted him when he attempted to place Willis Eches, 22, under arrest for intoxication Wednesday night, is reported to be recovering rapidly at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton. He is suffering more from the beating he received than from the revolver shot, one of five fired, which grazed his cheek, inflicting a flesh wound. His condition is not serious. Emory Boggs, 19, Fairfield, said to have admitted firing the shot, was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to six months in the County Jail by C. O. Longnecker, justice of the peace. Eches received a similar fine and sentence. Both were brought to the County Jail Thursday to begin sentence.

A TRUE ROMANCE

A beautiful wedding was put across at the M. E. Church today, the participants being Miss Hilda Hoodoodle and Hiram Haydoodle, well known and known well in these parts.

The bride wobbled up the aisle on the arm of her father's wheel chair. The chair was wheeled by two of her father's great-grandchildren and the orchestra played "Thanks for the Buggy Ride."

Miss Hoodoodle was arrayed in white and carried a big bouquet of white roses; her hair was gray, bobbed, and full of dandruff. She smiled a faint smile through a cracked and wrinkled face and nodded to her acquaintances.

The groom was unaccompanied, but walked with the assistance of two beautiful mahogany crutches, a gift from a local drug store. His head was patterned after the marble top of a cafeteria table, his false teeth chattered just a little and his hands trembled nervously.

Oh yes, this was the couple who waited until they could really afford to get married. Why wait? You can buy golden oak clothes, coat and anything you need on the dollar down plan.

PLEASE PASS THE HANDKERCHIEF

I hate to see a baby cry.
How sad the moaning billows:
But, folks, it nearly breaks my heart
To see the weeping willows.

For real humor read the patent medicine ads. Did you see this one the other day?

WOULD SHUT DOWN THE GAS WORKS

"My stomach has been so filled with gas for the last three years that I felt I could pretty nearly supply our town."
—We'll keep you in mind. We may be able to use you if this cold weather continues.

AFRAID OF HOODOO BUT LANDS IN COURT

"He tried to hoodoo me," declared John Bird, 40, colored, arrested Wednesday night by Patrolman George Robinson on a charge of pointing firearms at Harry Sample, colored, former cook at Antioch college.

There was, however, nothing ghost-like about the action of Mayor

John Prugh who bound him over to the grand jury under $200 bond at his trial Thursday afternoon.

Sample boards at the home of Effie Hurst, Lexington Ave., where Bird is alleged to have flourished the weapon at him. He gave the excuse Sample was "monkeying" around trying to hoodoo him and that he had followed him to the Lexington Ave. house to warn him to keep away from his home.

The Theatre

Up in Urbana, Ohio, a "Little Theater" movement has gained wide appeal and popular attention. Organized a few years ago, it has enlisted several hundred members, produced a number of amateur theatricals and offered an out-let for the theatrical talent that is rarely found in small cities.

Otto H. Kahn, the financier who is god-father for the Metropolitan, in his treatise on the American stage which he is pleased to subtitle, "Reflections of an Amateur," says the enlistment of local pride, to discover and give opportunity to local talent and to bring into concrete existence sentiments, aspirations and interests which are latent among the people throughout the country, is a problem before the theatrical world now.

He proposes a combination of small communities to have their own theatrical seasons as a means of educating and giving practice work to embryo artists in order to supply the American stage with talent.

Young America, he says, "especially the female portion of young America, is bringing forth each year a surprising number of artistically gifted—some of them brilliantly gifted—ambitious and serious-minded aspirants for a career on the dramatic stage or in music."

He continues: "To return to the orderly sequence of my thought, I wish to stress the point that far too much of young America's artistic talent goes to waste for lack of guidance and opportunity. In Germany, in Italy and of late to a lesser extent—in France, there is a theater in almost every one of the larger cities (not to speak of the state-maintained conservatories in the respective capitals). Young artists get their practical training, their routine and stage experience in smaller theaters. It does not take long for those of superior qualifications to be discovered and to find engagements at theaters in the principal cities. Similarly with

VIRGINIA, when her husband, JIM LARRABEE, an army officer, goes to the Philippines. Virginia is a social climber and uses Nancy to gain her ends. Virginia insists that the girl accept the attentions of FRANK HARRISON, their wealthy landlord. Nancy prefers NICK WAYNE, a young man whom she meets at an exclusive dance club.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

VI—I AM GIVEN A CAR

VIRGINIA came in the next morning with my breakfast tray and a huge box of orchids, in the midst of which I found Nick Wayne's card.

"Who is he?" she demanded.

"Oh, a chap I met once at a party when I was at school," I answered. You simply have to lie to Virginia—her manner tempts you to even when her words don't.

"Is he the Nicholas Wayne who married Linda Jamison?" she asked, and went on to describe him. My heart sank as I saw that her description fitted. I always feel so desolate when I hear that a nice new man has a wife.

"Her parents didn't approve of the match and took her abroad, and she divorced him just recently," Virginia went on. "Better news, that!"

"I read about it in 'Town Talk' just the other day. Well, don't go with him much—he hasn't a cent. Though he goes with the best people in town—don't discourage him too much. When do you see Frank Harrison again?"

"Today, for tea," I answered. I wished she would not be so insistent about him.

I went for my morning walk a little later; no matter what the weather, that was part of my routine. Virginia approved of it because it was good for my looks; I loved it because I liked exercise and also because it took me away from her. I simply had to have a chance to think once in a while.

I came back to find a note from Jim, posted somewhere along the way. Before I read it I took out the lovely enamel locket he had given me when we were engaged, and looked at his picture. It was a snapshot taken when he was at West Point; such a nice, laughing picture, with eyes that smiled straight at you. How I had loved him when he gave me the locket, and I found his picture inside loved it. I opened his letter with a warm glow in my heart for him. I even wondered if I couldn't manage somehow to rush off to the Islands and join him before long. What fun it would be to surprise him!

Five minutes later I was laughing at myself. I had read his letter then.

"Dear Nancy," it began. "Too bad you couldn't have come along on this trip; we're having a corking time. Celia had made her compartment look like a stinking living-room, somehow, and we've all made headquarters—she doesn't mind having half a dozen men around her."

I remarked to myself at that point that of course she wouldn't; she was the kind of woman who thinks she's awfully popular if there are a lot of men on hand.

"She and I have had several good talks," Jim went on. "Really, she has changed since the days when I knew her before. Then she was just a school girl, now she's a woman, who says the most amazing things

I'm glad she and Bill are in the regiment. We have decided to share a house as that will save me a lot of bother, and she says that she might as well keep house for two men as for one. And of course she lived in the Islands when her father was stationed there, so she knows all about being comfortable in spite of the heat."

I could just see Celia proposing that little plan, and big, nice Bill urging it, and Jim consenting. Another woman making plans for making my Jim comfortable!

At first I was furious. I jumped up and started for the living-room where Virginia was reading, intending to tell her that I'd just got to join Jim at once.

And then I stopped. Jim wouldn't want me. He'd been quite willing to leave me behind. Bitterly I recalled that moment when I had seen him with his arms around Celia. What a fool I was!

I put on my prettiest frock, and when Frank Harrison came, gave him such a charmingly friendly greeting that Virginia smiled on me in approval, and he promptly offered me his car to use whenever I liked.

"You might just as well have it," he urged. "The streets are impossible in this weather, of course, and I don't like to think of your jaking taxis, they're so unsafe. She's such a lovely little thing," he added, to my mother, "that we'll have to take good care of her."

"Yes indeed," assented Virginia. I knew that she could just see herself using that stunning big car, and its uniformed chauffeur. A car had been one thing that our budget just couldn't manage to include, and even renting one by the month was out of the question.

"Oh, you're too kind," I told him, hating myself for my smile, yet remembering that that was one of the things I had to bargain with. "May I really have it to use just as if it were my own?"

"Surest thing you know!" I'll have Watkins take me down to the office in the morning, and sometimes perhaps you'll run down with him and bring me home at night. Think you could manage that?"

"Oh, she can't," Virginia answered before I could speak. I didn't like that part of the picture quite so well. The telephone rang just then, and the maid said it was for me. I flew to answer it.

"Hello, Nancy!" It was Nick Wayne's voice. "Come on for a nice tramp through the Park. I'm at the corner drug store."

"Oh, I can't—I'm so sorry—" My regret was sincere. I was longing to get out of the atmosphere that Frank Harrison and Virginia together managed to create. I felt as if I were in the market place. "Make it an hour later and I'll come."

"Fine—we'll have dinner together somewhere where it only costs a dollar!" he laughed.

Monday—Nick's Past.

Accident Mars First Test of Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES READY FOR TEST. INTL.

Breaking of one of the cables on the dirigible Los Angeles, injuring a movie cameraman, marred the first test this year of the big United States aircraft at Lakehurst, N. J. Officers landed the dirigible without accident and the cable was repaired.

Automobile Owners Protective League of which city councilman Peter Witt is chairman, is aimed at getting the required 250,000 signatures of qualified electors in at least 44 of the 88 counties in the state. "During 1925 the automobile owners of the state of Ohio have been compelled to pay out more than $23,000,000 for license plate and gas tax, said Witt. In 1926 they will have to pay even more. And with the legislature meeting again soon, and no restrictions placed upon it, the burden will rapidly grow still greater.

The constitutional amendment proposed by the automobile owners protective league will exempt the automobile from taxation, declared Witt.
